

MetalQueen I

The sun sets and a heart breaks
A whispered word broke his hope
The lost love brought him down
His hurt soul bleeds too much

But she returns and gives him her hand
Helping the man to stand up
She's the Metalqueen,
Merciful and sweet,
She's too perfect for him,
He knows it, he knows it.

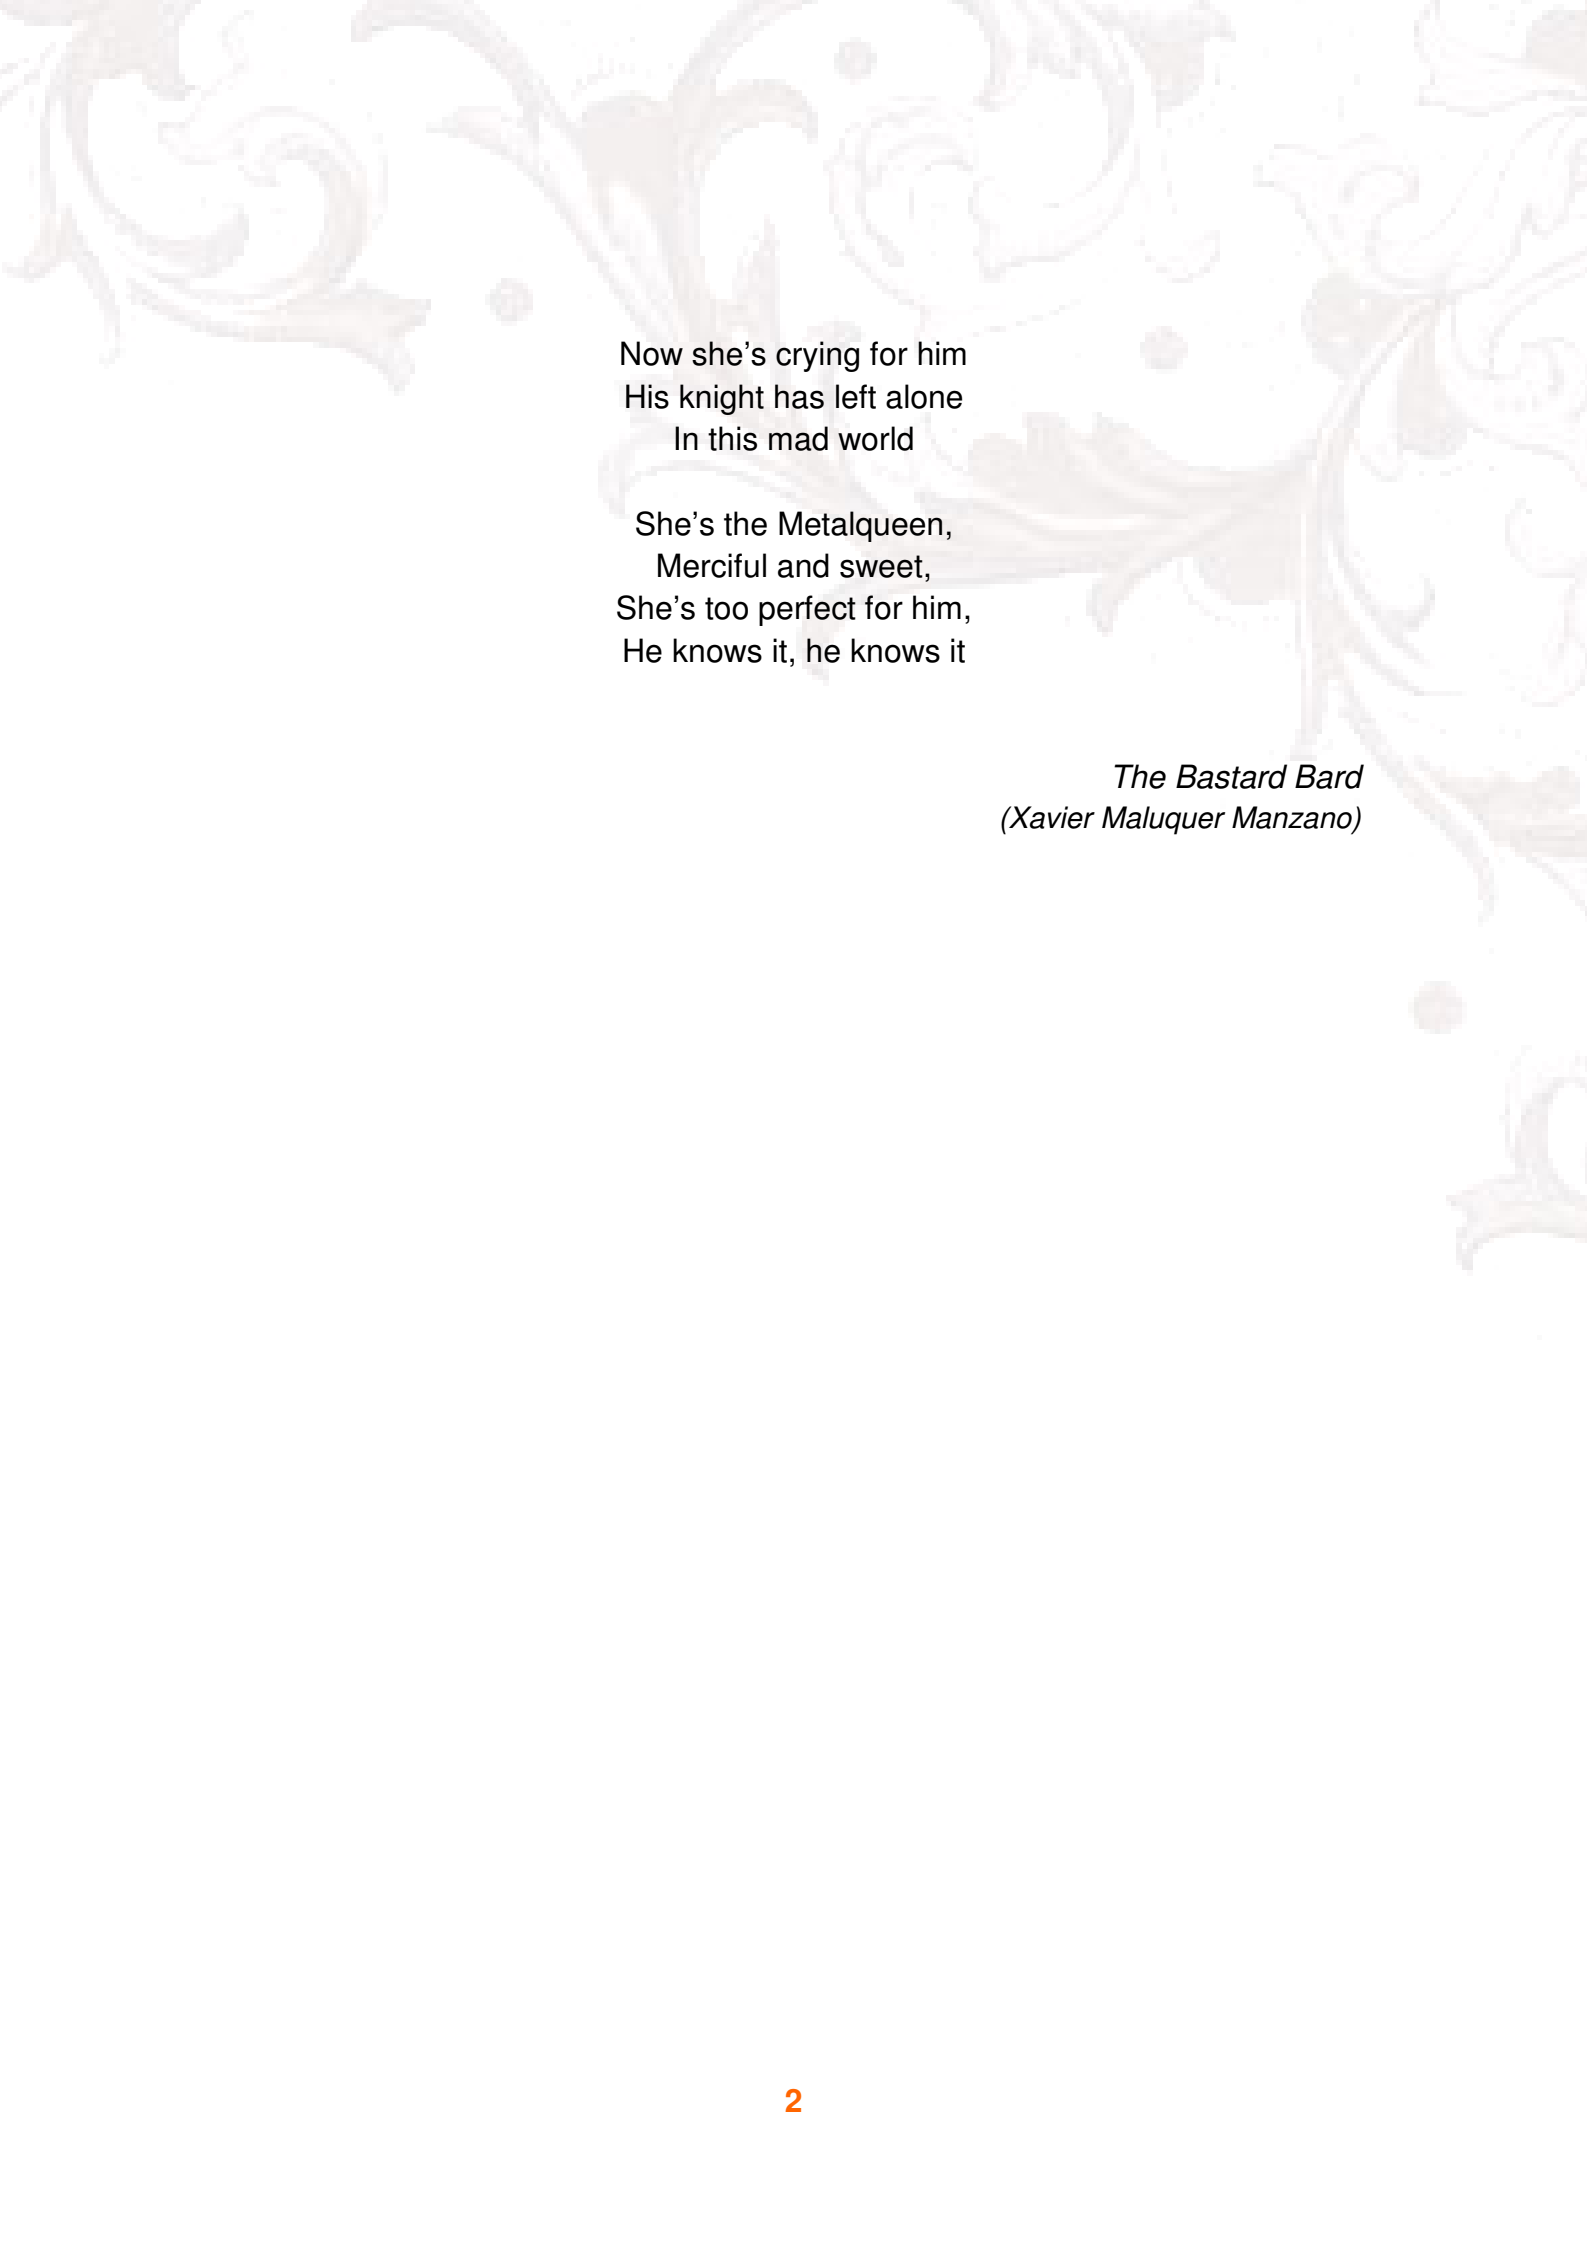

Her friendship is a wingless love,
His sorrow seems too deep
But he pretends his happiness

She's the Metalqueen,
Merciful and sweet,
She's too perfect for him,
He knows it, he knows it.

He tries to make her happy
Even she sees him as a friend
His pain hurts too much
But he tries to survive

She's the Metalqueen,
Merciful and sweet,
She's too perfect for him,
He knows it, he knows it.

One night he gives her a black rose
Then he decides to jump
His corpse is just a tie
In the endless ocean

Now she's crying for him
His knight has left alone
In this mad world

She's the Metalqueen,
Merciful and sweet,
She's too perfect for him,
He knows it, he knows it

The Bastard Bard
(Xavier Maluquer Manzano)